NEW APC CONSULTANT

APC is pleased to announce the addition of the following new APC colleague:

- Guy has a Post-Graduate Diploma in crop protection, following a Botany degree from the University of Durham. After working for five years in horticulture, he spent the next 13 years running product development programs for two multi-national agrochemical companies, as well as a year with a major trial CRO. Since 2005 he has worked as an independent consultant, concentrating on creating and supervising product development programs and the preparation of efficacy submissions, for a wide range of chemistry, on almost every crop and non-crop situation in northern Europe.
